

Shinto in the city

Private client, Amsterdam

‘From the open living area you can see the vertical garden’

project
House in Amsterdam

design
i29 interior architects

client
private client

category
residential

location
Amsterdam

floor area 140 m²

completion year 2010

‘Connection with nature’

We designed a minimalistic light and open space and placed two big objects that fulfil different functions.

Connection with nature is an important aspect of Japanese culture. So when a Japanese client asked us to design their house in the city centre of Amsterdam, we made sure they’d feel at home.

Kitchen and wardrobe are combined in one object that we placed near the entrance. The bath- and bedroom are combined in an object in the back of the house.

From the open living area you can see the vertical garden that covers the walls of the bedroom/bathroom, this gives the whole house that natural, Japanese feel.

project
House in Amsterdam

design
i29 interior architects

client
private client

category
residential

location
Amsterdam

floor area 140 m²

completion year
2010

3

project
House in Amsterdam

design
i29 interior architects

client
private client

category
residential

location
Amsterdam

floor area 140 m²

completion year
2010

4

